

Authentication of Key Biological/Chemical Resources

We will authenticate all yeast strains by genetic approaches to verify key markers. We will also use next-generation sequencing to confirm expected genotypes. All antibodies used for chromatin immunoprecipitation, western blotting and immunofluorescence studies will be authenticated for their specificity with yeast deletion strains whenever possible. Alternatively, we will use epitope tagged alleles.